EXPLOSION.
"Lady" and "Party" are back into favor after a long absence. Back into favor after a long absence. Back into favor after a long absence.

A word that is gradually coming into its own again after a period of disuse is "lady." After having been used until it lost its significance, the word was suddenly revived by the use of it by all polite, if not by all, conversation.

Now there is a tendency for the word "lady" to be used in the talk of persons who feel themselves that they speak the liberal. Yorkshire. But it must be used in a slight emphasis in order to South Fullerton the word has just been in the New York Sun.

"Party" has a long history. It has been restored to its original drawing-room conversation and a few years ago the word "party" was scorned as "lady" in the New York Sun.

supposed to be critical. Awake, Camden; such importance. It was, however, W. K. Bass.

But now "party" is a trifling machine word of words of the Berrigan, East and is added to the list of words of the Berrigan, East and is added to the list of words of the Berrigan, East.

Thus one hears of "party" surgeons' sponge "dancing parties," and "party" Jones, Bloomfield; out the whole category.

ESTIMATING COAL.
Some startling figures have been obtained by a mining quantity (about) for a small Anthracite, Cranford.

A banking house in pain from corns I made an estimate of writes H. Robinson, Maine in the anthracite. But Bucklen's sylvania, and finds that the cure was 5,073,775,000 tons of anthracite, bruises, are, with insignificant burns, boils, ulcers, property of eight skin diseases and ailments, which expect to be cured by this season.

coal would last about fifty years. the consumption of soothing Syrup has been increasing, and if thirty years by millions banking house is a success. It soothes the field of Pennsylvania, the gums, allays the haughty long before, and is the best century, says the Baltimore. It will relieve While this coal is at hand immediately, accessible and of every part of the there are other anthracite sure and ask that may be brought soothing Syrup.

State Politics.

Mr. Charles W. Powers, who is something more than a passive student of State politics, says that one of the great mistakes made by the Essex County Republican leaders in State politics is the caucus of Assemblymen-elect from Essex County, and which has come to be known throughout the State as the Essex caucus. "It acts," says Mr. Powers, "like a shot of defiance to the rest of the State and causes the Assemblymen from other North Jersey counties to strike hands with South Jersey for mutual protection against the Essex alliance. The Essex caucus is a strike for plums, but invariably ends in the gathering of crumbs that fall from the South Jersey table." This year again, despite the fierce opposition of Essex to the plans of the South Jerseymen, it was ready to gather the crumbs which fell from the feast table. It is significant, too, that the South Jersey combination which won so handsily, with Bradley for Speaker and Horner for leader, allowed Essex such a liberal share of the good things. It may be altogether unselfish, but to the ordinary observer it looks like a shrewd political move, which may show its purpose later on. If Essex had been left entirely in the cold, with nothing for its little army of hungry men, it would have been in the best of positions to command the situation in the coming session, and contingencies might arise which would leave that situation greatly to be deplored by the South Jersey leaders. They are a pretty shrewd lot down that way, and they count more than a week ahead when they are figuring on politics.

Some of the knowing ones say that David Baird of Camden was the master hand in the organization of the Legislature this year, and that Mr. Baird will succeed to the United States Senatorship if occasion requires the present Legislature to fill a vacancy in that position.

Some of the most active of the North Jersey leaders have been actively engaged in the past two or three weeks in the laying of foundations for a coup against the men from the southern tier. The purpose of the effort is doubtless to get a grip on things that will count for much when the time shall arrive for the election of a United States Senator. Recently there have been circulated stories to the effect that State Assessor David Baird, one of the shrewdest men in the party organization, was laying the wires for his election, and this has been used where it would be most effective in influencing votes, but Mr. Baird has come forward with an indignant protest, and declared that he is too close a friend of General Sewell to do anything at this stage of the situation, and has only contempt for those who would use his name for credit.

It is indelicate, to say the least," said one of his friends, "and no one who knows the Camden leader will for a minute credit the statement that he is so far forgetful of his position and his high regard for the stricken Senator as to use his present illness to further his own ambition."

Barker Gammons of Mercer County has been named as the man around whom North Jersey men should rally for a successful fight against the Camden influence.

Not much is heard as to what the Legislature is likely to do in the way of law-making or law-tinkering. Important things for its consideration are the proposed constitutional amendments which were passed by the last Legislature, and which, if ratified by the coming body, will go to the people for acceptance or rejection at a special election. The most important of these amendments are those providing for biennial sessions of the Legislature, the creation of an independent Court of Appeals, and extending the term of the Governor from three to four years. Of these proposed changes in the fundamental law of the State, it is likely that the biennial sessions plan will be opposed with sufficient strength to defeat it, but that providing for the new Court of Appeals has the endorsement of lawyers in all parts of the State, and is the result of years of agitation. It is held that litigation cannot have fair and impartial treatment under the present plan of appeal, and that an independent court is the only solution of many present difficulties. One of the most earnest advocates of biennial sessions has been General Sewell himself, and with him disabled, it is feared that this step for reform will fall. It is not liked by the little country leaders, who look upon the annual election of members of the Assembly as one of the best means of keeping things political in trim.

It is pretty certain that the Meeker election law will come up for revision, if not repeal. The consolidation of the spring elections with those of the fall has not proven all that was desired from a political standpoint, and the new law is full of unforeseen complications, which must needs be straightened out by the coming session. Just what will happen to the law is one of the problems, for there are any number of plans proposed for its patching and tinkering.
